Hour of Code

The Wonder Lab and program coordinator, Gretchen Brown, hit the road the week of December 9th for Computer Science Education Week to bring the “Hour of Code” to North and East Elementary schools.

Brown noted, “We recently had a programmer speak at our Boys Night Out and he said he thinks it's important that all students do some type of programming regardless of their future professions because of the problem-solving, critical thinking and perseverance skills they will learn. He is so right.”

By taking the Wonder Lab on the road and utilizing www.tynker.com , students in grades 1-6, were able to participate in the Hour of Code movement which coordinators hope encourages students to take an interest in computer science.

“The kids absolutely loved it. I wish it was something we could do more often and believe both North and East Elementary are looking into ways to incorporate it into their ENCORE time,” Brown added.
